Hi!

Unfortunately, Max has recently been ill and he is not thinking straight. He has caused harm in the past few days and this “game” of his had to be taken down. Hopefully he will be back to normal soon.

Thanks

To all those that may be wondering what is going on, Max Fog uncovered some information that is ultimately harmless yet left him disoriented as he mistook it for other information. As his day continued he began to become more and more paranoid as he killed over this recollection until he finally couldn't hold it much longer. He looked to the nearest place to help him support him but he lost control before that happened.

Dear Intfiction members,

I am deeply sorry for what happened earlier today. I hope I did not cause too many of you trouble through my messages. I have since learnt how to deal with them. At the time of the earlier messages, I was suffering from a bout of mania but am feeling much better now.

I hope you can all forgive my actions, and continue to see me as a friend.

Max Fog
